What does a Presenting Sponsorship buy Hope Connections?

One weekly support group and three mind/body classes for an entire year!

Support groups are important venues through which participants and their loved ones can voice their concerns, griefs, trials, and joys in a safe and welcoming space. Licensed social workers facilitate all groups.

Mind/body classes are an important part of cancer care. In exercise classes such as Gentle Yoga and Pink Ribbon Pilates, participants work to strengthen body and mind. All classes are tailored to fit the needs of cancer patients and provide opportunities to participate at any physical level. Classes like meditation and Inner Peace and Healing are excellent for those participants looking to unwind, relax, and aid in stress reduction. All classes not only facilitate healing and reduce stress, but also help to build the community that Hope Connections for Cancer Support has come to be.

“As a caregiver, I felt alone. Yes, I have friends that care but, try as they may, they don’t really understand how I feel or what I’m going through. I walked into my first support group and knew right away we all ‘got’ how it felt. No words can explain how much that meant. And the support group counselor perfectly allows all of us to share. Coming to this group has been a god-send!”
